Fall Environmental Agenda Is Crowded For Last 3 Weeks Of Legislative Session

The Senate and House will only be in voting session together for three more weeks during the remainder of this year. Any bills not receiving final votes will die and have to be reintroduced in the new session in January when a new Senate and House and Governor will consider them.

The Senate is scheduled to be in session for three weeks-- the weeks of September 20, 30 and October 12-- and will not consider legislation after the election. The House will return to session for the weeks of September 13, 20, 27, October 4, November 8, 15.

Here is a list of some of the major bills and issues still awaiting action. It is by no means a complete list--
